SAFETY TO PASSENGERS ON STEAM VESSELS, ETC. Mr. Hamlin, (dem.) of Me., made a personal explanation. On the 18th of February, the Committee on Commerce reported a bill relating to the better security of the lives of passengers on vessels propelled in whole or in part by steam; and subsequently, several memorials and resolutions upon the subject of over crowded California vessels, were referred to that committee-and he had, on behalf of that committee—and he had, on behalf of that committee, asked to be discharged from the consideration of those memorials, because a bill had been already reported on the subject. His reason for asking to be discharged had never been reported in the papers, and the people and Legislature of Maine had been alarmed, believing as they do, that the committee intended to give the subject no attention at all. He therefore thought it advisable to make this explanation.

House of Representatives.

Washington, March 12, 1852. THE CAPITOL EXTENSION—A FIGHT BETEEN TWO MISSISSIPPIANS —IREMENDOUS EXCITEMENT AND CONFUSION.

The House went into Committee of the Whole on the state of the Union, and proceeded to consider the Senate joint resolution, authorizing the continuance of the work on the two wings of the Capitol.

Mr. Stanton, (dem.) of Ky., was instructed to move an appropriation of $500,000, to be expended between this time and the 30th June, 1853. The work has been commenced, and he could not doubt the intention of Congress to complete it-$100,000 have already been expended.

Mr. Woodward, (dem.) of S. C., would like to know when the special committee appointed to examine the foundation walls, would make their report, and what the report is likely to be. The question whether there shall be an appropriation at all, or what the amount shall be would be affected by the report.

Mr. McNam. (dem.) of Pa., replied that the report would be made next week. The investigation is going on regularly, and the committee, on examination, found the walls in a dreadful condition, which astonished all of them.

Mr. Florence. (dem.) of Pa., asked his colleague whether there was not testimony before the committee showing the strength and capacity of the foundation walls.

showing the strength and capacity of the foundation walls.

Mr. McNair replied—There is contradictory testimony. After the testimony was given, the committee examined the walls for themselves, and were very much disappointed in the badly constructed foundation.

Mr. Stanton said there was a description of cattle who, disappointed at having failed in securing contracts, came here to harrass the House—he had almost said, mislead intelligent members of Congress, if possible. He (Mr. Stanton) then spoke of the work, which, he insisted, was admirably done. He knew something about buildings, for he worked twelve years at his trade; and knew something about mortar—well tempered mortar—for he was a thing about mortar—well tempered mortar—for he was a good tempered man. (Laughter.)

PRILINGARY ARRANGEMENTS FOR A SET TO.

Mr. Baown, (S. R. dem.) of Miss., made a party speech, taking a retroepect of the rise, progress, &c., of the Southern rights movement, which went down from the time the first Union convention was held in Mississippi. If he was called upon to write the epitaph, it would be:—

"Requiescat in pace." He would not make merry over the tomb of an old friend. He believed that the movement was made in a patriotic spirit, and was calculated to preserve the rights of the States—that, in the language of a facctious friend. like "Peter Pringle's pig."—

Myen it lived, it lived in clover,

And when it died, it died all over. (Laughter,)

He then passed on to speak of Mississippi. His collegue (Mr. Wilcox) had, in rather bad taste, spoken of the old line democratic sarty; they were never out of the party; but Mr. Wilcox and his associates put themselves outside the pale of the democracy by joining the Union party, which, being composed of men of the whig and democratic party; they were never out of the pate of the democracy by joining the Union party, which, being composed of men of the whig and democratic parties, had no right to appoint delegates to the democratic convention.

A straong instruction.

Mr. Wilcox, (Union dem.) of Miss., rose and said—I the democratic convention.

A STRONG INSINUATION.

Mr. Wulcox. (Union dem.) of Miss., rose and said—I was informed that I was to be denounced, this morning, by my friend—for I hail him as, such, and he is such—but, really, the storm has passed. His missiles are weak, and have fallen harmiess at my feet. My colleague says that a secession party in Mississippi existed in a chimera, and that there was no party in favor of secession. I had thought that the gentleman had too high a regard for truth to make a declaration so baseless of truth. (Sensation throughout the House.)

"Do YOU BITE VOUR THUMB AT ME. SER!"

Mr. Brown—I desire to ask my colleague, does he mean to say I have been guilty of a falsehood! The inf-rence may be left on the minds of some gentlemen.

Mr. Wh.cox—I have spoken boldly; my language can-tot be misundetstood on that point. THE FINAL INQUIRY.

Mr. Brown—Do you mean to say that what I have stated is false? (looking sternly at his colleague.)

Mr. Wilcox—If you mean to say there is nobody in Mississippi in favor of secession, it is false.

THE FINAL ANAWER.

Mr. WILCOX—If you mean to say there is nobody in Mississippi in favor of secession, it is false.

THE FIGHT—FIRST BLOW FOR BROWN—THE SECOND FOR WILCOX—BOTH ARE EVIDENTLY GAME.

The last word was scarcely uttered, before Mr. Brown drew off and planted a blow in Wilcox's face.

Wilcox returned Brown's blow, and both elenched.

MR. BROWN APOLOGIZES ONLY TO THE HOUSE.

Mr. Brown then said—During the six years I have occupied a seat on this floor, I am not sensible of having violated decorum, or committed any breach in the rules of the House. I deeply and painfully regret that there should have been a necessity for my doing so now. I shall not recur to the circumstances under which I was induced to perpetrate the act in the presence of the House, which I know was a breach of its rules—a violation of parliamentary decorum, and a thing I would not have been guilty of, except under a very pressing and extraordinary necessity. I apologize to the House sincerely, carnestly, from my heart—I apologize to the representatives of the people, and express to them my deep and heart-felt regret that I engaged in any transaction which, by possibility, can east discredit on the councils of the nation. More than this I cannot say. The House, I trust, will receive the apology. I throw myself on the indulgence of the country, and ask its pardon. I offer the guarantee which a past life in the service of my country affords, that a like occurrence will not again take place, unless under some other very extraordinary and unusual provocation. I am the lust man wilfully to violate decorum in the smallest particular—much loss violate it in so flagrant a manner as to attract the attention of the House.

Mr. Willow Makes A Similar Apology.

late decorum in the smallest particular—much less violate it in so flagrant a manner as to attract the attention of the House.

Mr. Wilcox said—it is a matter of regret that I rise so soon after having become identified with this body, to make an apology for a breach of its rules. During the time I have been a member of this House, I have endeavored, so far as in me lies, to discharge all the duties devolving upon me as a representative, and to comply strictly and rigidly with the rules and regulations governing this House. That the quiet and repose of this deliberative body has been disturbed, is to me a matter of heartfelt sorrow. I tender an apology. I mean what I say, as the language of my heart. I intended no disrespect to the representatives of this mation, and enter my disclaimer to this effect; but as my honorable colleague alluded indirectly to the unpleasant difficulty, permit me to say;—I consider the wrong and outrage offered justified me in the course I pursued. I have nothing further to say, except to claim the indulgence and forgiveness of you, who are magnanimous and generous.

No ARRESTS—WHERE WERE THE FOLICE.*

Mr. JOHNSON, (dem.) of Ark.—I move that the gentlemen be excused. Do I understand they have been arrested by order of the House?

Mr. JOHNSON, and these were no proceedings yet, and he hoped none would be found necessary.

The Speaker said the Sergeant-at-Arms was called, but there had been no arrests.

Mr. JOHNSON—I withdraw the motion.

THE HOSPITAL BURNED BY A MOB. AT NEWTOWN-CLAIM FOR DAMAGES—THE REVISION OF THE LAWS—THE CANAL AUDITOR AND COMMISSIONERS — GERRIT SMITH—THE CONTEST FOR THE OFFICE OF STATE TREASURER-MIKE WALSH AT THE MUSEUM, ETC. SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE NEW YORK HERALD.

ALBANY, March 12, 1852. The Senate were engaged until a late hour in discussing the claim of Mr. W. W. Niles, for the burning of his buildings near Astoria, in 1847, while occupied by the Commissloners of Emigration. The question is, whether the State is liable for the destruction of property by a mob, when in possession of its agents. This claim has been rejected half a dozen times, and will be now. Still, Mr. Niles declares he will persevere during his lifetime, and his children after him, until the claim becomes satisfied. Very likely.

Mr. Beekman has introduced a bill for revising and publishing the public laws of this State. It creates a board of revisors to collate and revise all the acts up to the close of revisors to collate and revise all the acts up to the close of the present session. The work is to be reported to the Legislature; and, when approved, the revisors are to procure its printing—the copyright to be vested in the State The Secretary of State is alone to direct the sale of the work, when complete.

A proposition will be introduced in the Assembly, in a day or two, more especially defining the duties of the Canal Auditor, so as to compel him to pay one of the drafts of the Commissioners.

The Assembly was engaged on private claims the whole day.

A resolution was offered, granting the use of the Assembly chamber, this evening, to Gerrit Smith, for the purpose of delivering a lecture on the Maine Liquor law. Mike Walsh moved to amend, by granting permission to Prof. Mitchell, on Monday evening. The House not feeling particularly anxious to ascertain Mr. Smith's views on that subject, adjourned without taking a vote.

The contest for the election of State Treasurer, is now fairly under way at Ilhaca. We learn that the jury finally selected, stand equally divided as to politics. Whittsleen was attacked by a large body of the enemy whose object seemed to be, by obtaining possession of and driving off the cattle, to draw the defenders from their guarded position. The Kaffirs were kept at a tolerable respectable distance by a small plece of artillery, and from twelve to twenty of them were killed. SERIOUS RAILOAD COLLISION—RAILROAD CONVENTION—THE SOUTHERN MAIL.

The train which left Baltimore at half-past six o clock this evening, came in collision with that which left Philadelphia at two-clock to-day, about two miles from here, at a quarter before seven o'clock this evening. The locomotives were smashed, the ears thrown off the track and a number of persons were much bruised. No lives were lost. The train from Philadelphia was behind time, and carried no light. Fortunately, the trains were proceeding slowly, or the consequences would have been most disastrous. It is said to have been caused through a variation in the watches of the conductors. No one has been seriously hurt. The train which left Baitimore after nine o'clock, will not connect with the train for New York.

Over one hundred delegates from Pennsylvania to the Susquehanna Railroad Convention, arrived in Baitimore to-night.

Another anti-Rent Outrage the fellowing account of an anti-rent outrage that took place on Monday last.—Early on Monday morning, Mr. Ezra Yager, who is in the employ of Mr. Ethredge M. Fish, engaged in the arrest of the Turners, left this city in company with a lad, for the purpose of serving a legal process upon a Mr. Hompstead, of the town of Berne. He succeeded in this object without opposition, and set out on his return. He had not proceeded far when he found Hempstead was following him. Several persons joined Hempstead replied that he was. Whereupon he picked up a large stone, and preparing to throw it, exclaimed. "Let skill the d——d rascal!" Yager was the Sheriff. Hempstead's party set up a shout, the horus blew lustily in every direction, and in an almost incredibly short time a gang of from fifty to sixty men, armed, and his boy, turning the horses, heads, and compelled them to return to Pecara, or a place called Phily, in the town of Berne, upwards of twenty miles from this city, where Yager was taken before a justice formally put under arrest, heavily fromed, and locked up a prisoner. The hoy who was with Yager was not molested, and by the nid of the landlord of the place, he was suffered to escape. He made good use of the opportunity and rode into town yesterday afternoon, and communicated these particulars. The last that was heard of Yager, was very early yesterday morning. Up to 8 o'clock last evening nothing further had been heard from him nor any course of action decided upon. The deposition of the boy who was with Yager, was taken before justice Cole yesterday afternoon. Mr. Yager is a resident of this city. It will be a great shame if he is not resured imachiately.

OUR PUBLIC CABELLO CORRESPONDENC PUERTO CARELLO, January 26, 1852.

The Condition of the Country—The Proceedings of Congress— Trade—Inumdation of Foreign Goods—Arrivals of Vessels— Markets, &c. In regard to the political affairs of this country I have but little to say, further than that the people appear to be determined to acquiesce in the domination of the Monagas family. Were the lower classes of society more enlightened, we should be led to expect a change, at least, in the officers of the government; but the most profound ig-norance prevails among the masses, who believe that their elevation and happiness depend upon the maintenance in power of the party now in the ascendant, and until, by experience and bitter disappointment, a change of opinion s offected, we can scarcely hope for a better state of things. Although, by law, an almost absolute freedom of the press is permitted, yet it is a dead letter in reference to political discussion, inasmuch as no one dares to at tack, with any degree of warmth, the acts of the government, in consequence of the threats of the creatures of the administration to use violence against all who attempt to raise their voice in condomnation of the mea-tempt to raise their voice in condemnation of the measures of the central or provincial authorities. Thus the press is completely muzzled.

Congress is now in session; but nothing of importance has been effected for the benefit of the country, unless we may be allowed to anticipate something advantageous from the permission granted the notorious Guzman, vice President of the republic, by Congress, to withdraw from the country for six months.

This city, Laguayra, Caraceas, in fact the whole country, is inundated with foreign merchandise of every description, and sching at very low prices, and often at a sacrifice. The Germans, both merchants and pediars, appear to have resolved to monopolize the whole commerce of Venezuela, and, in a measure, have succeeded in driving away the English, French, and American merchants, manifesting thereby a superior tact or knowledge of business traffic with the creoles. It is also true that a great quantity of cheap German trash is imported, and represented to be of English and French manufacture, particularly in the hardware line. Great imposition is practised, at the expense of the British manufacturer and creoles of the country.

Pierto Cabello has improved considerably within the last five years. Numerous dwelling houses and stores have been erected, and leaved immediately, at very high rates of rent, thus giving the town a much more respectable appearance than formerly. The public buildings, however, present a miserable aspect—churches, hospitals, barcacks, &c., look more like stables than for the purpose they are destined.

In one of the Caraceas papers, herewith enclosed, you will perceive the official statement of the collector and deputy of this custom house, showing the number of vessels that entered at this port, both foreign and Venezuelan, for the months of October, November, and December 1851; amounts of imports in same, duties collected, &c. It is as follows:—American vessels, 10—(from Baltimore 1, New York 3, Philadelphia 5, and from Boston 1)—English, 6; German, 6; French, 6; Spanish and Italian, 5; Danish, 3; New Granada, 1; Dutch, 7, and Venezuelan, 7—Total, 51.
